This course will visit key moments in the history of Western Christian church music. The story of music in Christian worship services in the West begins with the evolution of Gregorian chant from Hebrew and other models, progresses through the development of music for more than one voice part in settings for the early Catholic Mass, and divides into the Reformation stream including Lutheran chorales, other Protestant metrical Psalm settings, and the emergence of loftier settings in the cantatas of J. S. Bach and the oratorios of G. F. Handel. The narrative then continues onto the development of hymns, first without and then with specific tunes, then onto a lighter variety of gospel, revival and Sunday School songs. All the while, religious thinkers and musicians within the church (often the same people) continually examined their practice of music in worship and sought musical reforms and developments which they thought would bring more truth, spiritual edification, beauty and/or appropriate praise to God.

SCIE 1502 Darwinism and Intelligent Design
3 Credit Hours
This course studies the controversy over Darwinism and intelligent design in three dimensions: science, philosophy and history. We seek to understand why and how scientific skepticism toward Darwinian evolution has intensified. By the time of the 1959 Centennial of the publication of Darwin’s “Origin of Species,” a consensus had emerged: both the original of life, and the subsequent diversification of life had been produced by strictly mindless and purposeless forces in nature, such as mutation and natural selection. However, after the appearance of Michael Denton’s 1985 book “Evolution: A Theory in Crisis,” this consensus began to come under heavy criticism. This course surveys all major facets of this debate in the years following Denton’s bombshell, including the problem of fossil stasis and the Cambrian Explosion, the role of philosophical naturalism in defining science and the a priori exclusion of non-naturalistic alternatives, the challenge of irreducibly complex machines within cells, the rise of the information-bearing macromolecules—DNA, RNA and proteins. Students will review the contributions of Phillip Johnson, Michael Behe, William Dembski, Jonathan Wells, Stephen Meyer, as well as Darwinist responses from diverse scholars such as Kenneth Miller, Michael Ruse and Stephen Jay Gould. The roles and functions of scientific rhetoric will be highlighted throughout the course, and related issues in physics and cosmology—such as cosmic fine-tuning and the multi-verse hypothesis—will be covered as well.

What difficulties arise when scientists assume that micro-evolution can generate macro-evolution? Why and how can we detect objects or phenomena that were produced by an intelligence? How has scientific rhetoric been transformed by the furor over ID? What are the key trends that will shape the future of this debate? What role do worldview commitments of scientists play? Does ‘fine tuning’ of the universe lend weight to ID Theory? These and many other questions will be analyzed.
